1.	“I doubted if I should ever come back.” Why does the poet doubt he should ever come back? 	difficult.
2.	What images does the poet use to compare the two roads? Ans: The poet uses the two roads to symbolize the options or the opportunities one faces in one's life. He further differentiates the two roads to bring his point home. One road is travelled by most people, the other is less travelled.. Though both are equally fair and tempting yet one has to take only one. He uses expressions like wear, trodden black, grassy etc to compare both roads.
III.	Answers to Long Answer Questions (Value Based)	8
1.	Do you think the poet would have ultimately found his destination, even by taking the first one? Would he have cherished the time spent while travelling the first one as well? Discuss. Ans: In the poem 'The Road Not Taken', the poet Robert Frost, has revealed that the world being round, one road leads to another. Hence, the poet would have ultimately reached his destination. He might have taken a little more time by taking the first one. The poet might not have cherished the time spent to an equal degree while travelling the first road as his enthusiasm for the second road was much more than for the first one. The second road was less taken by the travelers so it generated more enthusiasm in the poet's mind. Therefore he cherished those moments for a long time.	8
